[INTERNAL USE – this article contains manufacturer origin information regarding current and upcoming DW Products]

Motion Area Selection

The camera groups CPRO and TVT act as the developers and vendors responsible for developing the current Digital Watchdog IP camera products – the MEGApix Series.

As CPRO and TVT cameras use different motion detection configuration setups in their respective Web UIs, you may also notice a difference when setting up the motion detection area(s) with the VMAX IP Plus.

This article will outline the comparable differences between CPRO and TVT sourced IP cameras with motion area setup and include a list of MEGApix cameras that were manufactured by CPRO and TVT.

Supported/Affected Devices:

- VMAX® IP Plus™ Series
- MEGApix® IP Camera Series

Setting Up the Motion Area for a VMAX IP Plus

Motion Area Configuration for CPRO Web UI

When setting up Motion Detection in the CPRO camera Web UI,

- The settings for Motion Detection in the CPRO camera Web UI can be found in the Setup > Events > Motion menu.
- You can draw and arrange up to four (4) Motion Areas in the CPRO camera Web UI. Motion Areas can only be drawn and resized in the shape of rectangles.
- When drawing a VMAX IP Plus's Motion Area for a CPRO camera, you can draw and arrange a single (1), rectangular Motion Area on a single detection layer in the NVR's UI.
  - If a customer wants to detect motion from different, separate areas with a CPRO camera, they can draw up to four (4) detection zones in the camera's Web UI and have the Motion Area settings of the VMAX IP Plus select the entire camera channel's FOV (ALL) as the Motion Area.

Motion Area Configuration for TVT Web UI

- The settings for Motion Detection in the TVT camera Web UI can be found in the Config > Alarm > Motion Detection > Alarms and Sensitivity menu.
- You can draw and arrange the camera's Motion Detection Area on a single detection layer.
- When drawing a VMAX IP Plus's Motion Area for a TVT camera, you can draw and arrange multiple Motion Areas on a single detection layer in the NVR's UI. The selected areas can be marked into separated sections and shaped to the user's preference.
